

GRADUATE PROGRAM IN ENVIRONMENTAL BIOLOGY

ENVIRONMENTAL BIOLOGY, M.S.

HOOD.EDU/ENV

“Critical thinking was certainly something that I strengthened through my courses at Hood. It’s so important to be able to draw from your experience and knowledge when finding a solution to a problem or starting new research.”

Natalie Redman, M.S.’21

ENVIRONMENTAL BIOLOGY AT A GLANCE

Advocating for sustainability and protecting natural resources, as well as combatting and mitigating the threat of climate change, are all cornerstones of our environmental biology program. Through mastery of the scientific method, students will gain the firsthand knowledge and advanced skills necessary to address urgent ecological challenges. Our interactive program emphasizes a real-world, hands-on approach to learning. With a curriculum based on the latest research and techniques, graduates are poised to embark on a variety of high-level scientific careers.
